Clerk,

Evolving in real time. RCMP have communications from the protest group that some or all will leave by end of day today. As previously reported given the nature of the weather conditions, the site itself and the equipment involved, this may take many hours to accomplish. This ought not to be broadcast further at this time and negotiations are literally happening now. I will update with more details when they are known.

Mike

Thank you.

I'm in cabinet and am anticipating a question or two before we're done.

So appreciate any update when available.

Otherwise my advice will continue to be negotiations are underway.
